LA FOLLETTE WILL GRILL SENATE

WILL LECTURE ON RAILROAD RATE QUESTION.

Proposes to Name the Men Who are Identified With the Railroad Trust—Hopes to Educate the People and Arouse Public Sentiment on the Question—Wisconsin Senator Will Not Rest in His Vacation.

Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, will visit every part of the United States during his vacation between the sessions of congress in a lecturing tour, for the purpose of educating the public on the railroad rate and traffic questions.

He proposes to speak plainly of the actions of the United States senate and will give the list of names of those senators who are opposed to rate regulation or who have been identified with the railroad trust that the people may know where each man stands.

This lecture tour by Senator La Follette, a member of the highest law-making body in the land, promises to be more thrilling as a means of arousing public sentiment than the articles now running in the current numbers of so many leading magazines.

A special from Madison, Wis., says of Senator La Follette's plans:

Senator La Follette tonight said, in answer to a question as to whether Senator Fulton of Oregon, or any other senator, was included in his so-called "blacklist" with Senator Hemenway of Indiana, and others who voted contrary to him on certain bills in the senate, that he had no "blacklist"; that he would probably read the list of senators who voted against him on such occasions, and as frequently as he saw fit.

This is the way Mr. La Follette, in his characteristically guarded way, refers to the senators whom he is fighting for their opposition to his pet measures.

"I hesitated a long time before going to the senate, for I knew what conditions confronted me there. But I finally decided that it was better for me to go there and get facts and conditions first hand and then in the summer vacation to go on the lecture platform with a copy of the senate record under my arm and show the people just what the national lawmakers had done and just how they had voted on legislation.

"That is what I am going to do this summer—call the roll of the senate all over the country and let the people know what is what. The people of this country are slow to move and slow to act, but when they take a stand for their rights, the wrong must give ground."

Was in Poor Health for Years.

Ira W. Kelley, of Mansfield, Pa., writes: "I was in poor health for two years, suffering from kidney and bladder trouble, and spent considerable money consulting physicians without obtaining any marked benefit, but was cured by Foley's Kidney Cure, and I desire to add my testimony that it may be the cause of restoring the health of others." ## MULE RAISING PAYS.

Profitable Industry Awaiting Farmers of the West.

A mule is a cash article at any time from three months to 36 years of age, says an agricultural paper. It costs no more to raise a 3-year-old mule than it does a 3-year-old steer and it will sell for three times the price.

Too many farmers, though, sell their mules as they do their steers, without feeding them up. A good-sized 3-year-old mule if properly handled will do considerable work. If well kept on pasture, stalks and hay and then put up and fed for two or three months they will usually bring $25 to $50 more than if sold without any special preparation.

A good span of 3-year-old mules will usually bring from $225 to $300. They are usually healthy and vigorous. Not once in a hundred times is one injured by barb wire and are seldom injured otherwise.

The day of the small jack and the little mule is about gone. Neither pays. The dam should weigh from 1000 to 1500 pounds. The bigger the better, everything else being equal. Probably no other dam quite equals the pure-bred or high-grade Percheron for raising mules.

Many still insist on a touch of thoroughbred blood. This is all right in a way but usually reduces the size and injures the disposition. The jack should be large but not leggy. He should be well formed, have a good back, clean, heavy limbs and good action.

The cross of a Spanish jack and a Mammoth jennet usually gives the best results. Spanish blood gives finish and vigor, while the Mammoth dam gives the size. A good No. 1 jack is worth a fortune in any neighborhood and can be bought in the fall or winter for from $500 to $1000.

G. B. Burhams Testifies After Four Years.

G. B. Burhams, of Carlisle Center, N. Y., writes: "About four years ago I wrote you stating that I had been entirely cured of a severe kidney trouble by taking less than two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure. It entirely stopped the brick dust sediment, and pain and symptoms of kidney disease disappeared. I am glad to say that I have never had a return of any of those symptoms during the four years that have elapsed and I am evidently cured to stay cured, and heartily recommend Foley's Kidney Cure to any one suffering from kidney or bladder trouble." ## "Seeing Things" at Hoyer.

A sight which Hoyerians will probably never see again was presented here a few evenings ago after a shower, says the Hoyer Sunshine. Just before the sun set its radiance burst through the clouds while the raindrops were still falling. This resulted in a two-thirds circle rainbow. This is not an unusual sight anywhere, but across the river from Hoyer, and at a point midway between Atalla and Two Rivers, was presented the most gorgeous phenomenon of a lifetime—a mirage sunset in the east. Touring to the west one saw the orb of day through the light mist of the rain and the reflection not only of the sun but of the foothill, behind which it now sinks from sight was perfectly mirrored in the east.

Then the land was contested by a neighbor and the case was again fought through the various departments of the land office and resulted in a final victory for Martin, who has received his patent after 23 years of almost continual contest.—Pullman Tribune.

Salem Cannery Successful.

Twenty-five hundred cases of strawberries, aggregating 75,000 pounds, comprises the pack at the cannery of the Salem Mutual Canning company for this season and over 100 women and girls and a dozen men helped to turn out this amount for the market, says the Pacific Homestead. The average price paid for the berries was 3 1/2 cents a pound. This is the first season for the cannery and it is now busy putting away a large amount of cherries, principally the Royal Anne. The cannery was built the past spring and there is every reason to believe that its operation will prove beneficial to the stockholders and the fruit-growers in general who are included in the Salem fruit district.
